

Online tendering cuts costs

HCA International, who operate nine hospitals in London, has been more than happy with the results obtained through using online energy procurement company EnergyQuote.

In the first year electricity savings were 24% across HCA's nine sites, while second year savings were a further 11% on average.

Apart from the cost benefits of using an online tender to procure their electricity supply, HCA finds the system to be a very time-efficient method of sourcing electricity suppliers. They feel the system empowers the customer by maximising competition between potential suppliers.
